

Electrifying jazz in the city

Pics: Nitin Malik

Guillaume Blanc

Melanie

Machiko Yamamura

Jean-Philippe Bottin

Lella and Moane

JAZZ VIOLIN MEETS ELECTRONIC MUSIC:

A jazz violin concert was recently held at Alliance Francaise de Delhi, with French performer Guillaume Blanc playing live for the city's jazz lovers. The concert, called Electric Suites, featured jazz with a twist – the artiste blended violin with electronic music, developing a new aesthetic.

DELHI'S A LOT LIKE PARIS: Guillaume, who is currently on his debut tour in India, said, "The audience in Delhi is very similar to that of Paris – very energetic, very urban. People here really appreciate jazz, and I had a great time performing here." While the performer was happy with the response he got, the audience seemed equally delighted. Machiko Yamamura said, "It was my first jazz concert in India, and I thoroughly enjoyed it." Jean-Philippe Bottin, director, Alliance Francaise de Delhi, was also present.

CAPTURE THIS: Cecile

— P.Karunya@timesgroup.com

