Since its first edition, this event has known a growing success, and has become an international highlight of amateur and professional practice and of musical diversity. This is also a very special occasion for many people in many different countries to attend free live performances, in all kinds of places, even the most unusual ones.

This celebration of music has also reached the city of Delhi. Taking part in the world-wide

A wide range of genre, musicians and type of shows will be presented during all this evening, from 7 P.M. onwards, to promote the diversity of music, so that everybody will find a performance to his liking.

The "Fête de la Musique" is a celebration open to everybody, to bring together all the music lovers at one place. This occasion will be celebrated in more than 35 venues in the same premises with 2 huge outdoor concerts and 40 indoor diverse performances with a target of gathering more than 10,000 people like last 2 consecutive years.

This festival is fun! Each restaurant, cafe, lounge introduces one of the best artists from all over the world. Entry is free to most of these places, but one has to pay for the drinks and food. But there is nothing like
